WHOLE NUMBER 357.

UNITED STATES WILL MOBILIZE 9,000,000 MEN

Two Million Troops to Be Trained
Within the Next Two Years.

TO APPLY SELECTIVE DRAFT

Cabinet Rushes Work on Great Merchant Fleet—$200,000,000 Asked for Shipping Board—Industrial Conscription Is Favored.

Washington, April 16.—President Wilson and his cabinet in a two-hour session discussed the following steps toward mobilizing the power of the nation for war:

1. An army of 2,000,000 men to be raised and trained within the next two years.

2. A navy of 200,000 men within the next year.

3. Introduction of a bill in both houses early next week increasing the shipping board appropriation from $50,000,000 to $200,000,000 to rush the purchase and construction of a gigantic merchant fleet. The shipping board also will be empowered to put interned German vessels in this service.

4. An army of 200,000 skilled artisans to build 1,000 wooden merchant vessels for the merchant fleet.

5. An army of 7,000,000 men, including 2,000,000 who will be used in increased crop production and 5,000,000 skilled and unskilled laborers to produce war munitions and supplies.

Selective Draft.

It is the intention of the administration to organize the nation's industrial forces as well as its military and naval strength. The proposal to apply the selective military draft to all men between the ages of twenty-one and forty is growing in favor in congress and the administration. Under this plan all men of these ages would be listed and assigned to the military or industrial duties to which they are best fitted.

The first task will be to supply a merchant fleet. All available craft on the Great Lakes will be put in Atlantic service. W. J. Connors of Buffalo, who controls 35 lake vessels, offered their use to the government today.

Other ships will be brought through the Canal from the Pacific for munition transportation.

Among the first German ships to be used are two out of the fleet of 23 in Philippine harbors. The war department has permission to load two of these with hemp for the United States at once to provide for the grain harvest.

Tells Congress to Hasten.

A flat demand for speedy enactment of the administration's program of war legislation was served on congress by President Wilson and his advisers after today's cabinet meeting.

"We cannot fight a war without the man power and money power of the nation which congress must provide—and provide at once," was the ultimatum carried to the capitol by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo.

The full strength of the administration influence in both house and senate, it was stated tonight, will be exerted to cut short the parliamentary preliminaries and rush the war legislation to the statute books that American men and American money may "do their bit" against the submarine menace.

BRITISH BREAK GERMAN LINE

Hindenburg Barrier Cut at Two Points, and Allies Strike at Emergency Front.

British Headquarters in France, April 16.—The British broke the German front for a distance of four miles. The Germans are in retreat. The gaps in the German defenses were made in two places. Positions on a front of three miles between the Double Crassier and Giverny and another mile on the north flank of the Hindenburg trench system were captured.

Advanced posts were pushed well toward Queant and Pronville, important points in the German defenses.

The Germans are fighting as they retire from Loos southward and are being hard pressed.

Fire and explosions in the territory to the rear of the German lines continue.

GREETINGS FROM FREE RUSS

"Little Grandmother of the Revolution" Sends Congratulations to Editor of Woman's Journal.

Boston, April 16.—Catherine Breshkovskaya of Russia, the "little grandmother of the revolution," who has just returned to Petrograd after spending 30 years of banishment in Siberia, has cabled a greeting to Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, editor of the Woman's Journal of Boston. Her cablegram read:

"Greetings from free Russia to the people of the United States of America. An enjoying happiness with all the city and Russia and Siberia. (Signed) "BRESHKOVSKAYA."

RENE VIVIANI

Rene Viviani, former premier of France, heads the French commission that is on its way to America to confer on methods of prosecuting the war against Germany.

TO HIT SPECULATORS

U. S. Government to "Go to Mat" With Food "Hogs."

Bill to Empower Government to Fix Minimum Food Prices Will Be Passed.

Washington, April 16.—The United States government and the food speculators will "go to the mat" within a few days. Measures conferring upon the government absolute power to fix maximum food prices will be introduced in both houses. The unprecedented rise in food prices since the United States declared war against Germany has made prompt passage of such measures imperative to the nation's welfare in the opinion of senators and representatives who will have them in charge.

While these measures are being considered, the senate agriculture committee will undertake a comprehensive investigation of the whole problem of food production and conservation and endeavor to make recommendations for drastic legislation at an early date. Among the many plans now before the committee are:

Senator Kenyon's proposal to authorize the president to commandeer all grain.

Senator Frelinghuysen's proposition for mobilization of the country's agricultural resources.

Senator King's suggestion for further restricting food exports in the neutral European countries to prevent re-shipment into Germany and Austria.

Senator Smith's resolution for using every means possible to import and distribute to farmers fertilizer ingredients made scarce by the war.

Suspension of the manufacture of whisky and beer in order to conserve the grain supply of the nation.

Senator Borah of Idaho, who advocated drastic steps to meet the high cost of living at the last session of congress, declares that the time has come when the government must assume the function of fixing food prices. He suggested what the power might be conferred upon the council for national defense.

"America's duty in this war is first of all to feed her allies and herself," he said. "It is most important to produce and export sufficient food supplies than it is for us to send armies to France. If the most careful steps are not taken at once, the world is going to be face to face with a food famine."

AMERICAN SHIP IS SHELLED

Schooner Hunt Is Abandoned While Under the Guns of a German Submarine.

Washington, April 16.—The American schooner Edwin R. Hunt of New York was abandoned by its crew under shell fire from a submarine near Cape Gata, Spain, in the Mediterranean, April 7, according to a dispatch to the state department from Consul Gasset at Malaga. Consul Gasset's message said:

"American schooner Edwin R. Hunt of New York, Nicholas Miller, master, with crew of eight, bound from Crete to New York, hit, abandoned, and captured by submarine at 4 a. m. April 7, 40 miles off Cape Gata. Ship abandoned by crew, under fire, fate unknown. Crew all saved, brought to Almeria by Danish schooner Konso."

BRAZIL ARMS ALL VESSELS

Formally Assumes Control of All Interned German Ships—Machinery Is Damaged.

Rio de Janeiro, April 16.—Owing to damage done to machinery of German vessels interned here, the government formally assumed custody of all such ships. It was officially announced that Brazil is now arming all her merchantmen.

GREATEST WAR COUNCIL TO BE HELD IN U. S.

Conferences to Begin When Balfour and Viviani Arrive This Week.

MOST IMPORTANT IN HISTORY

Will Devise Plans for Faster Work Along Every Line of War and Endeavor by America and the Entente Governments.

Washington, April 16.—The great international war council, preliminary conferences to which already have been held here, will be the most important in the history of all wars.

The grand council will go into session as soon as all its members can reach here. It will devise plans for faster work along every line of war endeavor by the United States and the entente governments.

Consider Separate Peace.

It also will decide whether it is possible to divide the Teutonic alliance by granting a separate peace to Turkey and Bulgaria.

Although denial continues to be made that these two latter nations have made any move toward peace, leading diplomats here say a direct proposition has been conveyed to Russia. No details are available, as the suggestion was in the nature of a "feeler."

Elaborate precautions for the protection of the entente commissioners have been taken. No announcement of their movements is expected until the members actually are here in Washington. British Foreign Secretary Balfour and his aides will be here this week. The French mission, including former Premier Viviani and Field Marshal Joffre, will not arrive until several days later.

Vital Questions Up.

The questions to be considered have been outlined as follows:

How best to distribute the loan of $3,000,000,000 to "finance Germany's enemies."

How American forces can best be utilized to aid in crushing the submarine menace.

How the expected assistance of Latin America can be used.

Whether American troops shall go to Europe and to what front.

How best to open a line of uninterrupted communication into France to remove the danger of famine.

To Talk Peace Terms.

In addition the greatest single question, of course, will be whether the time is ripe, with practically the entire world in arms against Prussianism, to outline specifically the terms upon which the entente and its new allies will make peace.

No official information is available here regarding the efforts of Sweden to arrange for a peace conference.

Officials here say that any peace suggestion under existing circumstances would not be considered. With Germany preparing to characterize the entire Atlantic as a war zone and her submarines torpedoing without warning even hospital ships—the one class of craft that heretofore in all history has been immune from attack—it is realized that the final stages of ruthlessness have been reached and that until these methods are crushed peace suggestions on any other than complete surrender terms would be out of place.

ANTIWAR PAMPHLETS SEIZED

Federal Secret Service Men Raid Office of Chicago School Instructor, Who Is Suspected.

Chicago, April 16.—Two federal officers raided the office of Oscar M. Heath, instructor in English at the Englewood high school and proprietor of the Cultured Review school at 37 South Wabash avenue, and seized several hundred pamphlets of alleged "sedition," if not treasonable character. For writing, publishing and circulating these pamphlets Heath was suspended by Superintendent John D. Shoop of the public schools and was ordered by President Jacob M. Loeb to appear before the trial committee April 19.

SPAIN ALSO NEAR A BREAK

Crisis With Germany Over the Sinking of a Ship Is Admitted to Be Grave.

Madrid, April 16.—Foreign minister Girona has announced that the protest to Germany in regard to the sinking of the Spanish steamer San Fulgencio was sent to the Spanish ambassador in Berlin on Saturday in a diplomatic pouch and not transmitted through the German ambassador at Madrid. The gravity of the situation is emphasized by all the newspapers.

Another Traitor Arrested.

Chicago, April 16.—Charles T. Meeker was seized by secret service men here charged with having sent a letter to President Wilson, stating that "the traitor is in the White House and should be shot."

ACT AS A UNIT PLEADS WILSON

IN ADDRESS—CALLS ON EVERY AMERICAN CITIZEN, MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD.

SUPREME TEST OF THE NATION

We Must Speak, Act and Serve Together—An Eloquent Appeal For Concentration of Energies and For Unselfishness.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Washington.—In a personal appeal addressed to his fellow-countrymen President Wilson calls upon every American citizen—man, woman and child—to join together to make the nation a unit for the preservation of its ideals and for triumph of democracy in the world war. "The supreme test of the nation has come," says the address. "We must all speak, act and serve together."

Putting the navy on a war footing and raising a great army are the simplest parts of the great task ahead, the President declares, and he urges all the people, with particular emphasis upon his words to the farmers, to concentrate their energies, practice economy, prove unselfishness and demonstrate efficiency. The address follows:

"My Fellow-Countrymen—The entrance of our own beloved country into the grim and terrible war for democracy and human rights which has shaken the world creates so many problems of national life and action which call for immediate consideration and settlement that I hope you will permit me to address to you a few words of earnest counsel and appeal with regard to them.

"We are rapidly putting our navy upon an effective war footing and are about to create and equip a great army, but these are the simplest parts of the great task to which we have addressed ourselves. There is not a single selfish element, so far as I can see, in the cause we are fighting for. We are fighting for what we believe and wish to be the rights of mankind and for the future peace and security of the world. To do this great thing worthily and successfully we must devote ourselves to the service with an unflinching and intelligent will that will rise to the level of the enterprise itself. We must realize to the full how great the task is and how many things, how many kinds and elements of capacity and service and self-sacrifice it involves.

"These, then, are the things we must do and do well, besides fighting—the things without which merely fighting would be fruitless:

"We must supply abundant food for ourselves and for our allies and our seamen, not only, but for a large part of the nations with whom we have made common cause, in whose support and by whose sides we shall be fighting."

Negotiate a Separate Peace.
Petrograd.—An official statement issued deals not only with the campaign, but with the efforts of German Socialists to negotiate with Russian Socialists for a separate peace.

Legation and Consulate Attacked.
Buenos Aires.—The German Legation and Consulate here have been attacked by a mob, as have the newspapers Deutsche La Plata Zeitung and La Union. The windows of the buildings were broken. The police dispersed the manifestants, making numerous arrests. The editor of the German newspaper was wounded, as were several of the demonstrators. The President and the Cabinet were in session all afternoon discussing the sinking by German submarine of the Argentine steamship Monte Protegido.

Kentucky News Cullings

An epitome of most important events transpiring in state.

Paducah.—In an effort to have a flyless city the city commissioners purchased 200 fly traps.

Paducah.—The Rev. P. H. Pleune, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, has been selected scout commissioner for the Paducah Scout Council to succeed W. R. Nagel, who resigned.

Hopkinsville.—Charles W. Horn, 87 years old, perished in flames which burned the residence of his son, R. L. Horn, at Lafayette. The son was badly burned while trying to rescue his father.

Fulton.—Marshall Kendall, a well-known man of Fulton, was instantly killed when he was kicked by a mule. Kendall was in his barnyard. The mule kicked him in the forehead, breaking his neck.

Paducah.—The Delphic Club is raising a fund to provide members of the Murray company, K. N. G., with comforts and supplies not included in the furnishings of the Government. Several members of the company live in Paducah.

Sonora.—The fire of patriotism has been started in Hardin county by the Sonora Patriotic Club. A large American flag has been hoisted and unfurled from a 100-foot pole by two Civil War veterans, C. K. Tichenor, Confederate cavalryman, and J. C. Buckles, of the Union army.

Versailles.—The Board of Education of Woodford county has decided to have a cooking equipment placed in every one of the 26 rural schoolhouses in this county. The College of Home Economy of the University of Kentucky will send teachers to these schools to give instruction in domestic science.

Whitesburg.—With Judge John Butler, of Pikeville, presiding, the April term of the Letcher Circuit Court was convened here. Judge Butler's instructions to the grand jury were vigorous. For an hour he detailed the need for combating crime, dwelling principally upon the evils of whisky and pistol toting.

Lexington.—County agents enlisted in federal home demonstration work in Kentucky are present here at the annual instruction conference, which will continue for two weeks. Sessions are being held in the Educational building, University of Kentucky. Mrs. Helen B. Wolcott, head of the work in Kentucky, is presiding.

Louisville.—Thurston Ballard, a Louisville business man, was told of his appointment as chairman of the National Committee on the Cost of Living and Domestic Economy, a part of the national preparedness movement. Ballard is known widely as a former member of the Industrial Relations Commission.

Paris.—A suit in which the state seeks to recover back taxes for five years from the personal estate of the late John W. Tamm, of Bourbon county, has been filed here by Sheriff W. F. Talbott. The suit is directed against the Bourbon Agricultural Bank & Trust Co., administrators of the estate, estimated to be worth $25,000.

Barbourville.—Louisville men are forming a company to develop a large boundary of coal and timber land in Clay county. Judge Thomas Gordon, of that city, has been here for several days and has made a trip of inspection over the property. It is said that Col. Dickinson, of West Virginia, plans to install a large salt works on the Garard property, near Manchester.

Wilmore.—The faculty and the students of Asbury College here adopted resolutions approving without reservation the course pursued by President Wilson in the present crisis, and requesting him, with others concerned in the direction of American affairs, to do their best to suppress entirely the traffic in strong drink while a state of war exists.

Berea.—Berea College is preparing to adopt military training as a part of its preparedness program. At a meeting of the entire student body President Frost announced what eastern colleges are doing, and declared that Berea is ready to stand by President Wilson and the nation in the present crisis. Young men will be invited to spend in drilling the time that is ordinarily spent in athletics.

Island.—The postoffice and railroad station at Bracken, Muhlenberg county, was broken into and robbed of about $8 cash, $2.50 in stamps and $7 were stolen from the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co.

Princeton.—The campaign in Caldwell county for county offices is growing warm. J. Frank Guess announced for sheriff, making seven aspirants for the office. Others are M. P. Smith, Henry Towery, C. T. Martin, W. O. McGowan, Dr. M. Marguard and L. M. Craven.

Elkton.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Todd Fiscal Court, Jas. M. Weathers, of this city, was elected county treasurer.

Winchester.—A 750-barrel oil well was struck by P. J. White & Co. on the Ashley lease in Powell county. It is the biggest producer in the field.

Hodgenville.—A Bible institute is in progress at the Hodgenville Baptist church, of which the Rev. E. A. Cottrell is pastor. Two sessions daily are being held.

Louisville.—Miss Mary Marks, of Danville, and C. Lawrence Wolff, of Louisville, were chosen as the best singers in the state in the Evening Post contest here.

Lexington.—Lady Walnut Hill, the Louisville world champion pullet, is now starting on her second cycle. She laid an egg every day for ninety-five before missing, establishing a world's record.

Sebré.—The ninety-eighth anniversary of the founding of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows will be fittingly celebrated by the members of that order of Webster county at Clay Saturday, April 28.

Maysville.—A hundred or more people were turned away from the Washington Opera House, whence they had come amid a blinding snowstorm to attend a monster patriotic meeting. Mayor J. W. Lee presided over the meeting. Circuit Judge C. D. Newell delivered the opening address.

Versailles.—McKee Brothers, of Forest Home Farm, this county, sold for $1,500 cash to a western buyer Defender Major, a Defender-bred Duroc Jersey boar. The McKees are sons of the late Dr. McKee, who was a breeder of thoroughbreds. The boys decided to breed hogs instead of horses.

Litchfield.—Paul Carter, on trial in the Grayson Circuit Court for the shooting of Till Huff, was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter and sentenced to the penitentiary for eight years. The shooting occurred at Caneyville, twelve miles from here, on the night of February 1, at 10 o'clock.

Paris.—A petition, circulated here, calling on Mayor B. T. Hinton to issue a proclamation calling a patriotic meeting of the citizens of Paris and Bourbon county, received the signature of practically every business and professional man in the city. Mayor Hinton immediately issued a proclamation.

Lexington.—The James E. Pepper Distilling Co. announced it would not manufacture whisky during the period of the war and shortage of grain, in order to do its part in conserving the grain supply for foodstuffs and stock feeding. The plant has been offered to the Government for use in making alcohol.

Maysville.—The citizens of Maysville and Mason county held a patriotic demonstration here at the court house, which was filled to overflowing. In speeches the people were urged to stand by President Wilson. Among those who spoke were Mayor J. Wesley Lee, who presided as chairman, and Circuit Judge C. D. Newell.

Louisville.—A call of the Navy League of the United States has come from Washington to the women of Kentucky for knitted articles for the battleship Kentucky. The Government does not supply these articles of comfort for Uncle Sam's sailors that will, however, be essential to keep them warm in exposed work in small boats.

Covington.—Col. James M. Arnold, 76 years old, formerly local freight agent for the Southern railroad, died of apoplexy. He was found lying on the floor of his bathroom. He was a brother of Brent Arnold, railroad official. Col. Arnold served in the Confederate army during the Civil War and won the command of a regiment and the rank of colonel.

Lexington.—Inspection of the two proposed mobilization sites here to determine which shall be used for the mobilization of the Kentucky Guardsmen has been made by Col. Hunter, Inspector General of the Central Department, and Maj. Hampton, Quartermaster. According to Washington dispatches Gen. Wood, commanding the Department of the East, and Gen. Barry, commanding the Central Department, differ regarding sites.

Henderson.—Henderson county wheat fields are looking much better since the few days of sunshine. Many fields that were believed totally damaged by the recent blizzard have shown a surprising "come-back" and will produce from ten to twenty bushels to the acre, it is believed. Wheat growers who planned to plow up fields that seemed damaged will not do so because of the bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture advising to allow all wheat fields to stand.

Paducah.—A large addition is being made to the Paducah Hosiery Mills Co.'s plant, owing to increased business, and when it is completed the company will have a force of 115 women employed, with a weekly payroll of about $1,000.

Whitesburg.—The Louisville & Nashville railroad, according to an announcement, will soon build a branch line on Lotts Creek, near Hazard, Perry county, which will open an extensively rich but as yet undeveloped coal field. The line will be ten miles long.

He Ought to Win.

Judge W. C. Taylor, formerly a resident of Menefee county but now a citizen of Clark county, is a candidate for County Judge of the latter county.

It may be "butting in" to the affairs of a sister county, but we desire to express the hope that he will win.

The writer has known Judge Taylor intimately for 35 years, and in all that time he never knew of "Bill" Taylor's being guilty of an unmanly act.

His record—personal, business and political—is clean and wholesome. His record as County Judge of Menefee shows what application of sound business principles to public affairs will do for a county, and if the people of Clark county want a County Judge who has the business ability to put the county on a sound basis and the courage and integrity to suppress all forms of graft, they should elect W. C. Taylor.

With him as County Judge the taxpayers of Clark would get value received for every dollar expended and no more money would be collected than an economical administration of county affairs required.

Judge Taylor is a man of progressive ideas, sound business sense, moral courage and integrity, and ought to win.

I. C. Ferguson Enters Race for Representative.

In this issue we formally announce the candidacy of former County Judge Isaac C. Ferguson for the nomination for Representative from the 91 Legislative district, subject to the will of the Democratic voters to be expressed at the regular August primary, 1917.

Judge Ferguson is too well known to the people of Morgan county to require any introduction to our hands, and he is also well known to a great many people of Wolfe county, especially to the business men and politicians, with whom he has come in frequent contact during his career as a public official and as a business man.

He served his district one term as Justice of the Peace and was afterwards elected County Judge of Morgan county, and in each of those positions he discharged his official duties faithfully and well.

He is a man of more than ordinary business ability and always has taken an active interest in political affairs. He was born and reared on a farm and with the exception of the few years during and immediately after his term of office as County Judge, he always lived on a farm. He understands the needs of the farming class and if nominated and elected will put forth his best efforts to secure the enactment of legislation beneficial to the farmer and the laboring class of people.

Judge Ferguson will tell the people, through the columns of this paper, over his own signature, later on just what he stands for and what he intends to advocate in the event of his election. The Courier asks the voters to give his claims the consideration to which they are entitled.

Wells Working Wisely.

Joe Roe Wells has bought a saddle horse and announced that he expects to spend the greater part of his time from now till the August primary visiting the various precincts of the county in the interest of his race for Jailor. Joe Roe is not playing "second fiddle" to any man nor set of men. He is in the race to stay until the votes are counted, and the candidate who runs even in shooting distance of him, will always remember of having been in a race.

Plant plenty of potatoes, beans, onions, in fact everything, whether the war goes on or not.

Splash! We're in it at last.

To hell with Stone, LaFollette, et. al., along with the Hohenzollerns and Hapsburgs.

Think twice before you speak. The words you think smart may sound silly to others.

Your conscience, brother, will tell you when you are doing wrong—provided you have a conscience.

Gold may not be able to win love, but it makes it slide along a whole lot smoother. How's your sub?

No, the nation is not slowly drifting toward universal military service. It's going at express speed.

The fellow who makes a practice of betting on horse races seldom finds other people betting on him.

When in trouble get a lawyer as quickly as you can,
but for the sake of your pocket unget him as soon as you can.

It takes Uncle Sam a long time to get started, but the old boy can raise a heap of dust when he finally shakes his legs.

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown," and from recent reports some heads are not very easy after the crown has been removed.

Better plant that garden and get it in shape before you are called off to the war. The wife and kids can finish it, and they may need it.

Farmers are complaining that their hens refuse to sit,
but this simply emphasizes the good sense of the biddies in refusing to spoil high priced eggs.

Lurid editorials continue to tell us that America is wallowing in gold. Will some one kindly construct a hundred foot canal leading to our door?

St. Patrick banished the snakes from Ireland and was canonized. Nicholas banished the "snakes" from Russia and was ostracized. Something wrong somewhere.

"Bill" Foreman voiced our sentiments when he said that he would rather know of a son of his being killed in battle fighting for his country than to die from smoking cigarettes.

"Recently patented garters for men include pockets for carrying money," says a news item. And, presumably, when a fellow wants to treat his best girl he will have to undress before he can reach his wad. Not for us!

There is now a rush of "slackers" to the matrimonial altar to escape service in the army. Aside from the feeling of contempt for the "slackers" who hide from the recruiting officer behind a petticoat, we are led to marvel at the fear that will cause a man to face fighting at home and the high cost of living at the same time, rather than take a man's chance against the foes of his country.

The war must be waged vigorously to a successful finish. And that can not be done without a Congress in accord with the Administration. The Kaiser's man, Stone, and a few other pacifists in Congress are already at work throwing monkey wrenches in the legislative machinery.
Stone's latest stunt is a move to increase the soldiers' pay about four fold, making it impossible for the government to meet the payroll. Stone and his bunch have already been guilty of treason. Kick them out of Congress, anyway.

SHOOT THE SPIES!

Since the declaration of war by the United States against Germany, German spies and German sympathisers within our borders have commenced their activities. A munitions plant in Pennsylvania has been blown up and an elevator and several million dollars worth of wheat in Minnesota has been burned.

Only the most drastic measures will prevent much mischief being done at home by these German agents. It ought to be the policy of the soldiers guarding the various industries to shoot all suspicious characters and make inquiries afterward. Good American citizens will avoid all conduct that is questionable, and the most effective way to handle the fellow caught sneaking around the places under guard would be to shoot them and let their friends make their excuses at the funeral.

And the first step toward inculcating a universal respect for the flag would be to expel LaFollette, Stone and that bunch from the Senate and try them for treason, and round up David Starr Jordan and his bunch of pacifists and send them to their beloved Kaiser. They could be dropped over the lines from aeroplanes.

But shoot the sneaking spies or sight. Better be safe than certain.

How an Incubator Helps.

I have two incubators, each of 150 egg capacity. I have used them about four years and have been very successful with them.

I prefer the incubator to sitting hens for several reasons. The principal one is that I can hatch
a lot of chickens as early as I desire and not have to wait for the hen to become broody. It would take ten hens to cover the same number of eggs as one incubator, and I can give the incubator the necessary attention quicker and easier than I tend to the hens.

A large number of chicks of the same age can be cared for with the same work that twelve or fifteen would take. It also economizes in hovers. Chicks hatched in the incubator start out free from lice, and, if their quarters are kept clean, you don't have the lice to contend with.

If the temperature is kept near 103 degrees the chicks come out strong and healthy, but a high temperature will cook the egg yolk so the chick cannot absorb it, the chicks will begin dying in a few days.

The cellar is the best place to set one, as the temperature is more even there than in a building above ground. Before setting it I always disinfect it by washing thoroughly with hot water and some good disinfectant.
I let the lamp burn from 24 to 30
hours before putting in the eggs, so as to bring up the temperature of the machine. I fill and trim lamps every day, and prefer to do it in the morning, as that gives me the daytime to watch and regulate in case I do not get the wick turned just right.

I turn the eggs twice a day
from the third to the eighteenth, airing them some each day then leave the incubator closed until the hatch is well along or over.
After the hatch is completed I remove the tray and leave the chicks in the incubator from 24 to 36 hours, and then I take care not to feed too early.

For the first week or ten days
I feed toasted bread and hard boiled eggs run through the food chopper and sprinkled liberally with fine grit. My most successful season I used a fireless brooder and fed the commercial chick feed and bran after the chicks began to grow. —Mrs. C. T. Downing in Southern Agriculturist.

Take Care of the Manure.

The manure is just as truly a legitimate profit from stock farming as is the money received from the sale of the animals,
from wool or from dairy product.
Often farmers keep a steer in a cheap, rough way for a year for a profit of no more than $20. The manure from the animal is not worth much less than that to the soil. Another farmer may keep a steer more expensively and get a profit of $40, per year.
In this case the manure is doubtless worth every cent of $20, if not more, to the farm. In the case of beef cattle probably the manure represents from 33 1-3 to 50 per cent of the possible profit to be made from keeping the stock.
Do we treat the manure as if these figures were true? No, manure is yet an incident in our stock farming and is not a definite part of the profits of the business.

Half of the plant food is in the liquid manure, so that enough bedding must be used in the barns to absorb this or the loss is great even when the stock are under shelter. Even with the best precautions that can be taken, very considerable waste will occur unless a cement floor is used and plenty of bedding on it. A farmer should not plan to keep more stock than he can provide plenty of bedding for while they are in the barn. It is as important as feed.

Barn lots and small feed lots are no places for feeding stock nor for them to stand. After they have had time to water or have been out long enough for the feed to be put in the mangers they should be put back in the barn unless they can be turned out on fields where the manure will do good. Absolutely the farmer must get rid of the big leak that takes place when stock stand around the barns, in muddy feedlots, in water lanes, in rocky pastures and in wood lots.

The European farmer does it,
the Lancaster county, Pennsylvania farmer does it and so can we.

When bedding is scarce or when, for other reason, it suits best to feed out doors, a field should be selected that needs the manure and where crops can be raised or grass grown, so benefit will be received from the fertility.
Feeding racks and troughs should be made portable so they can be moved to distribute the manure. When hogs are the kind of stock kept, portable houses should also be provided.

When it is desirable to turn the stock out during the day, fields in sod should be provided, and they should be alternated, so that the manure that accumulates can be used to produce large feed crops. Salt boxes can be so placed in these fields to encourage the stock to spend some of their time in all parts.
—Southern Agriculturist.

A $50 Waterworks System.

Most farms have a good supply of water, but in order to have it properly distributed it will be necessary to use an elevated tank or an air-pressure system. I use an elevated tank on my own farm. The tank is not very high, for my house is only one story high and I do not need great pressure. The base of the tower on which the tank sets is walled in to form a bath house for my field hands.

I use an Aeromotor force pump on a driven well. In putting up the pump I set it over the well with the cylinder as close to the water as practicable. Then attach a six-inch piece of pipe to the back outlet, and to this attach a tee. Into each end of the tee screw another six-inch piece of pipe, and then to the extreme ends of these attach a globe valve.
In this way the water is under handy control of the operator of the pump.

It is an easy matter then to run the pipe a little way from the pump, turn it down into the ground and lead it to the bottom of the tank. Another pipe runs from the other side of the pump directly to the kitchen, and on to my milk room. Through this pipe we can pump clear, cool, fresh water into the kitchen or to the milk room. We have it arranged so that we can turn all the water from the pump into this pipe and use it for fire protection. A pipe from the tank supplies our barns with running water, and a pipe runs into the bathroom in the house. I pump the tank full once each day. It is so easy that a child can do it, but I intend later to put up a windmill for running the pump and get a larger tank.

As for drainage, a cheap and efficient method is easily arranged on most farms. I have a long V-shaped trough under the kitchen sink, and the water from other waste pipes is led into this.
From the trough the water may be led to any convenient place away from the premises. If you want a water closet you will have to lead the drainage away by pipes.

My pump has been in use for years and I have done nothing to it but renew the valves about every two years. I made a mistake at first by not having my exposed pipes protected in winter, but I boxed up around them and filled in with sawdust, and now have little trouble with freezing pipes. —Kolb Perkins in

Do Your Part.

All of us hope that the entry of the United States into the war will bring it to an early end, and this is the most probable result. But just how long it will last is beyond the ken of man. There may happen things that would put an entirely different set of circumstances up to the Allies to overcome, and Teuton resourcefulness may enable them to hang on for years.

In any event the task which we have had thrust upon us is a tremendous one and one which calls for our best efforts. Let no American underestimate the job we have embarked upon. There is something required of all of us in winning the victory.

There is a world-wide shortage of foodstuffs, and only by a well-planned campaign to increase production and conserve the food supply can a food famine be averted. Every available acre ought to be made yield its quota of food. Gardens must be planned with care and made to help in the winter to come. Potatoes, cabbage, and such things as can be kept through the winter should constitute the bulk of the garden planting this year.

All waste should be eliminated. The average American family wastes more food than a French or German family uses. Conservation of the food supply is the surest way to avert a famine. Don't say "Let George do it," but do it yourself.

The season for wheat sowing is past and we can not do anything to increase the yield of that staple, but we can increase the corn acreage and by eating more corn bread conserve the wheat supply.

In short, farmers of Morgan county, the time has come when each territorial farming unit must produce its own food. Morgan county can and should produce its own food.

By doing this you will be aiding your country as effectively as if you were on the firing line. In fact it is the American farmer that makes possible the victory of our cause.

And it is not for this year only that we must plan, but for years to come. Whether the war ends to-morrow or lasts for years, the fact that the world faces a food shortage calls for extra effort at all of our hands. The latest report of the government on the condition of the wheat crop shows that we can only hope for 65 per cent of the normal yield. This means less bread and more costly bread. There is a meat shortage also, and the breeding of hogs should be pushed to the limit. More attention to the poultry side of farming will do much to aid the meat shortage.

Mountain farmers must begin to plan to meet the situation. It is a grave condition that confronts us and brains must find the methods to furnish relief.

Here are some thoughts that may help:

Cultivate a big garden.
Increase your corn acreage.
Use commercial fertilizers.
Save enough wheat for seed to double your acreage.

Breed your brood sows and increase your pig production.

Eliminate all but the quick maturing breeds of hogs.

Get good incubators and make poultry raising a part of your farming.

Put in a tomato crop for home canning.

Save all your fruits and berries. Let no food article waste.

Man is Weakest Animal of All.

In proportion to size, man is one of the weakest animals on the earth. The muscles of a large sized oyster will support a weight of thirty seven pounds. There is a crab that will lift 492 times its own weight. This is the equivalent of an average size man lifting 73,100 pounds.

Felix Plateau, a Belgian scientist, who made many experiments found that a strength of a fly which was able to lift a matchstick, compared with a man's supporting with his feet a beam fourteen feet long and two feet six inches square.

There is a little bug that can drag six matches, equivalent to man's pulling 330 beams as big as himself.

To measure the strength of insects Plateau constructed delicate harness attached to a weighing machine. By prodding the insects he made them move. Then he piled on weight until they stopped. By this means he found that a bee, weight for weight, was thirty times as strong as a horse.

What He Did.

The seven year-old pride of the family had concluded his recitation of "the boy who stood on burning deck," and the fond mother, turning to the unnerved visitor, remarked:

"And I have been assured by really eminent judges, Mr. Jacks, that he closely approaches the late Sir Henry Irving in dramatic style, without, however, any of the great actor's mannerism."

"I am not surprised to hear it," assented the victimized one, with a strained smile.
"Mabel, also," continued the matron, blandly indicating a six-year-old mite of flaxen haired precocity, "plays exquisitely. Her rendering of 'Home, sweet Home,' with variations, is not dissimilar in touch and feeling to Paderewski at his best—as you shall presently determine; while Egbert yonder (get your slate and pencil ready, darling), though barely turned four, draws engines and railway-lines in a manner suggestive of Academy honors at no very distant future."

"They all have their fortes, you see! In fact most people have, when you come to think of it. What is your forte, Mr. Jacks?"
"Mine, madam?" gasped the wretched listener, "mine? Oh, I—I run!" and he suited the action to the word.—Ex.

Winter Feed for Laying Hens.

That a simple ration consisting of corn and a protein supplement is more economical under usual market conditions than a mixture of several different feeds for laying hens in winter is shown by feeding tests at the Ohio experiment station.

Corn and meat scrap have given practically as good returns as a ration of corn, wheat, oats, bran, middlings, oilmeal and meat scrap. The hens fed the simple ration had access to self feeding hoppers containing a dry mash made of eight parts of ground corn and five parts of meat scrap analyzing 50 per cent protein. They received twice as much corn, fed in equal portions in the litter twice daily as they consumed of the mash and also had grit and oyster shells.

The hens fed the variety ration laid more eggs, but not enough more to pay for the extra cost of their feed. Tankage and skim-milk, as well as meat scrap, are recommended to be fed with corn for laying hens.—Ex.

Honors Were Even.

A fat man could not help laughing one day at the ludicrous appearance of a very bowlegged chap.

Though a total stranger to him, the fat man slapped the bowlegged chap on the back and said: "By jingo, brother, you look as if you'd been ridin' a barrel." The bowlegged man smiled and poked his forefinger deep into the fat man's loose, soft stomach.

"And you look as if you'd been swallowin' one," he said.—Ex.

PERHAPS you have never heard of Daedalus. Maybe the name of Talos is just as strange to you.

Well, it doesn't make any difference. The point is that one of these two ancient gentlemen INVENTED the SAW. Pliny says Daedalus did. Apollodorus gives the credit to Talos.

It happened this way: Talos (or Daedalus, if you prefer Pliny) found the jawbone of a snake and employed it to cut through a piece of wood. Then he formed an instrument of iron like it and thus gave the world the first saw.

And the good old universe has been sawing wood ever since.

Former Morgan County Boy Honored

Thomas C. Easterling, who was born and reared in this county but who now lives in Philadelphia, was recently elected Financial Secretary of the North Penn Improvement Association, of the Quaker City.

The Northwest Leader, the official organ of the association, in its issue of April 6, carries an excellent likeness of "Tom," as he is familiarly called by his Morgan county relatives and friends.

The Courier, for itself and on behalf of its readers, extends congratulations.

Rossville, Kas., Apr. 9, 1917.

Mr. H. G. Cottle: You will find inclosed 50c in stamps for which send the Licking Valley Courier 6 months to Dennie Dyer, Rossville Kas., R. R. 14, in care of Walter McCleary.

This leaves us all well. We are anxiously looking for the Morgan County paper every Saturday and we have some few times failed to receive it until Sunday or Monday, which we regretted very much, as we all appreciate it so much. I will send pay for my subscription soon.

Respect,

Government Advertising.

If the United States Government be wise, it will be the largest user of newspaper advertising space this spring, and particularly will it advertise its requirements in country newspapers, for it is from the country must be drawn the brawn that will rally to the flag in time of national danger.

England has demonstrated to the world what newspapers can do for a government in times of stress. No other lesson need be learned. The newspaper gives to the government hundreds of thousands of dollars in free space every year calling the attention of the public to various government needs and accomplishments. Now comes the time for paid display advertising. The government is already convinced of the efficacy of newspaper advertising. Indeed, a board of advisers has been considered in this connection.

Mr. Courtland Smith has been appointed to represent the country newspaper in outlining the plan of campaign. This clearly demonstrates the scope of the movement.—American Press.

Edison's Wager.

It was a wager that set Thomas Alva Edison on the road to fame and fortune. When he was a telegraph-operator much annoyance was caused by cockroaches getting into the tin cans in which the boys carried their lunches. Various methods of getting rid of them were tried, but without success, and then Edison made a bet that he would exterminate the foe.

The next day the dinner cans were piled in a heap and the wizard surrounded them with a circle of tin-foil ribbon about an inch wide. About a quarter of an inch away he placed a similar circle, both ribbons being upright and then connected them with a battery. Along came the cockroaches. To surmount the obstacle they had to place their hind legs on the outer ribbon and their forelegs on the inner one. The moment they did so the circuit was completed, and they toppled over dead. Edison's success made him talked about, and Prominent Man Dies Suddenly.

Isaac W. Rose, prominent attorney, died suddenly at his home on Wells hill just west of town, at 10:30 a. m. Monday, April 16, 1917.

Mr. Rose had been over to town earlier in the forenoon and was apparently in as good health as usual. A number of local people saw and talked to him and he seemed unusually cheerful. He went home about the middle of the forenoon with the announced intention of going fishing. When found on his rear porch his fishing tackle was lying about him.

Mr. Rose came to West Liberty from Maytown more than twenty years ago. He was a prominent local attorney and was twice elected County Attorney of this county. Few men in the county were better known or better liked than I. W. Rose. The cause of his death is supposed to have been either paralysis or heart failure superinduced by paralysis, he having previously suffered two paralytic strokes.

M. Rose had been twice married. His first wife was a Miss Pieratt, and his second wife was Miss Annie Wells, daughter of the late E. B. Wells, of near town.

He is survived by his widow four sons, John M., of Grayson, J. R., of Loveland, Henry C. and Collier, of West Liberty; two daughters, Mrs. D. F. Fugett and Mrs. E. P. Haney, of Middletown, O., two brothers, John M., of Winchester, and Sigas, of Stillwater; four sisters, Mrs. Geo. Buchanan and Mrs. John W. Barker, of Stillwater, Mrs. Milburn Linkous, of Sulphur, Okla., and Mrs. Wm. Elkins, of Beef Creek, Okla.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. L. A. Fryman at the residence at 4 o'clock P. M. Tuesday, after which the remains were laid to rest near the house on a point overlooking the river.

We are authorized to announce I. C. FERGUSON, of West Liberty, as a candidate for the nomination of Representative from the 91st Legislative District, subject to the Democratic primary August 1917.

was his real start as an inventor.—The Northwest (Pa.) Leader.

Mr. Early was an elderly bachelor. He had grown weary of living alone and determined to marry. For a long time he had known the widow Kimball, and he asked her to be his wife. The question was a complete surprise to her, and her reply was a confused "No."

After reflecting a few days however she reconsidered the matter, and when she met Mr. Early she said:

"By the way, Mr. Early, do you remember the question you asked me the other day?"

Mr. Early said that he did. "Well," she continued, "I've been thinking the matter over and have changed my mind." "So have I," replied the bachelor.—Ex.

Stephen Girard

As a small boy he ran away to sea and at nineteen was captain and part owner of a trading vessel.

Invested savings were profitable and he supported the government with a five-million-dollar loan in the 1812 war. Girard college for poor boys is his monument.

There is not much variation in these stories of men's achievements. The poor boy who works earnestly and saves as much as possible for future investment generally is the person who commands men and directs great enterprises in after years.
